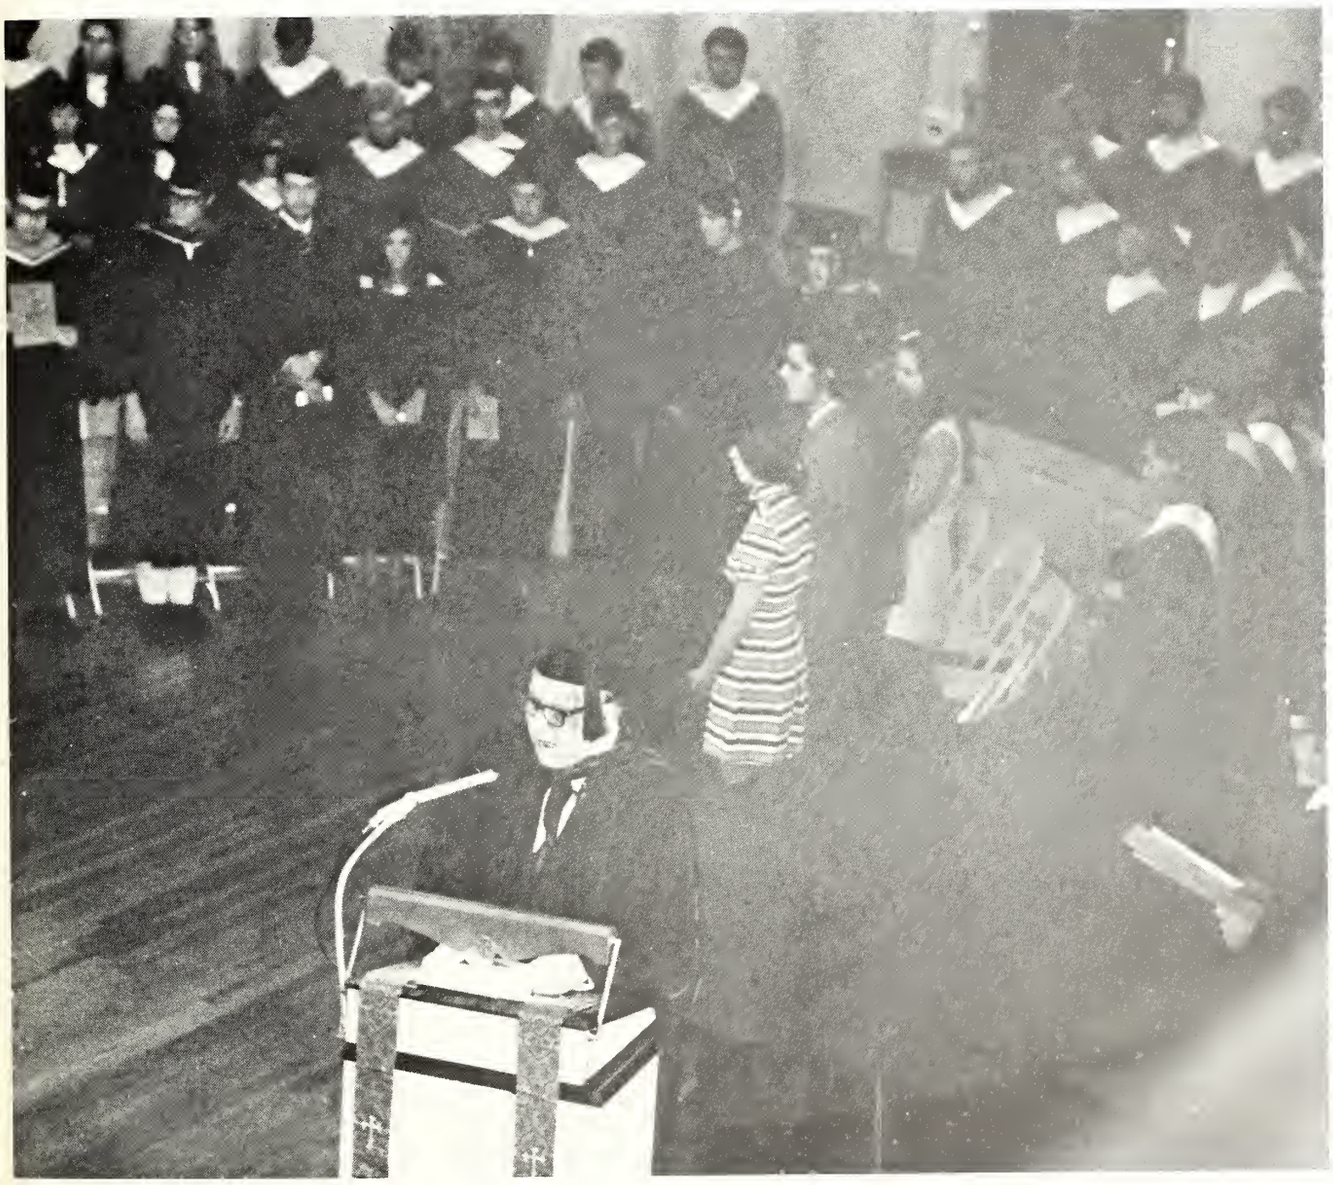
Time it was
And what a time it was,
It was . . . a time of innocence,
A time of confidences.
Long ago . . . it must be . . .
I have a photograph.
Preserve your memories;
They're all that's left you.

— Simon & Garfunkel



It is so small a thing
To have enjoy'd the sun,
To have lived light in the spring,
To have loved, to have thought.
to have done.

— Matthew Arnold

The world is a beautiful place to be born into . . .
if you don't mind a touch of hell now and then . . .

— Lawrence Ferlinghetti

You with your eager eyes . . .
and polished faces . . .
You with your fears and longings . . .

—Anonymous

THOMAS, RICHARD

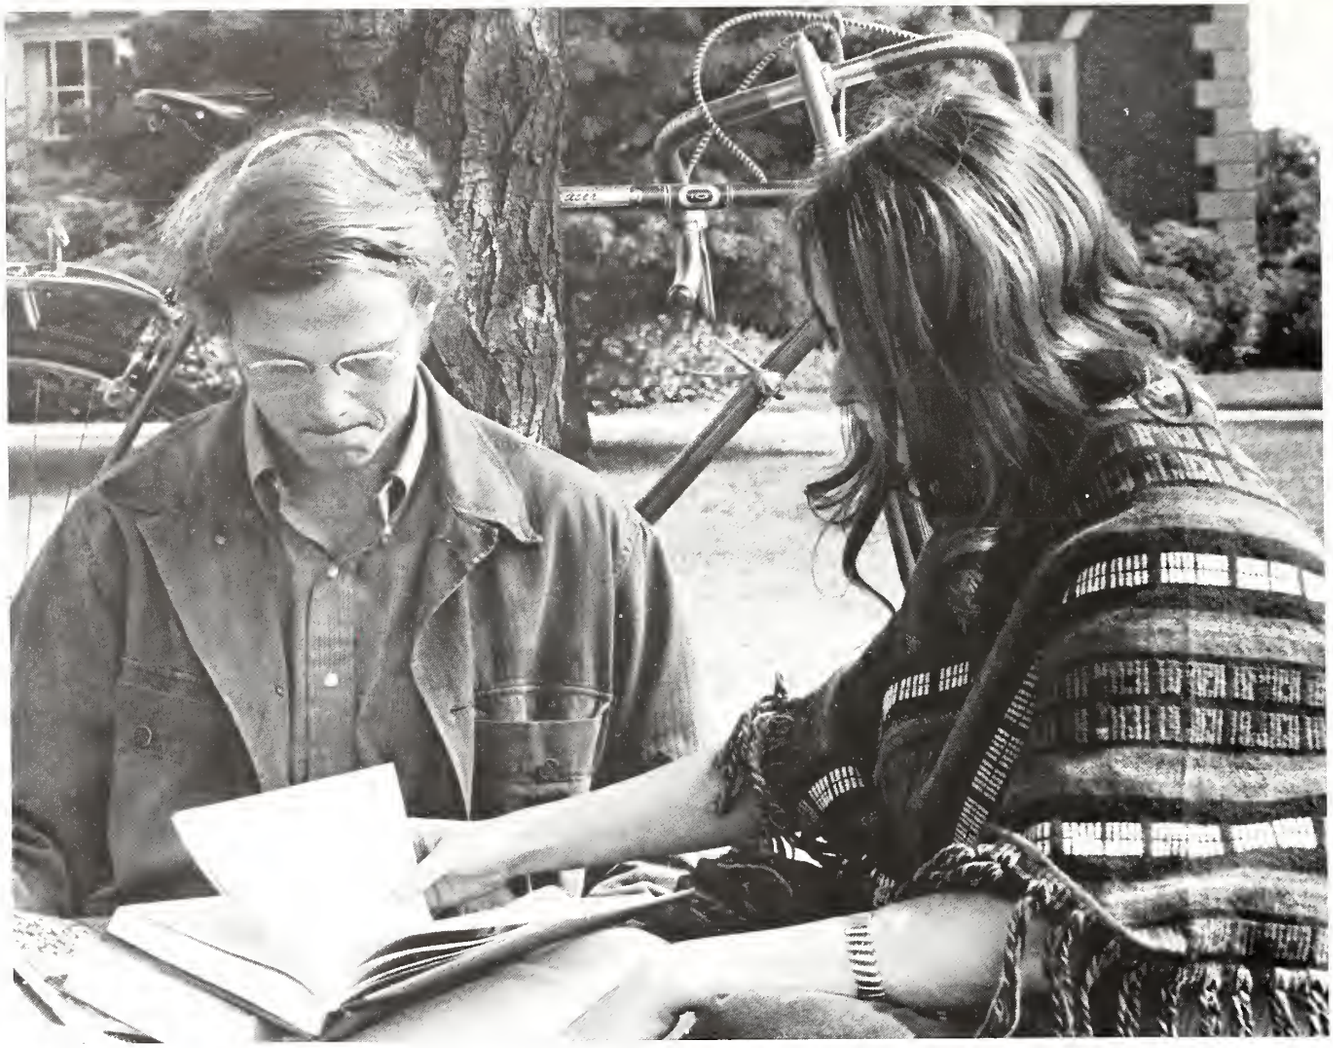
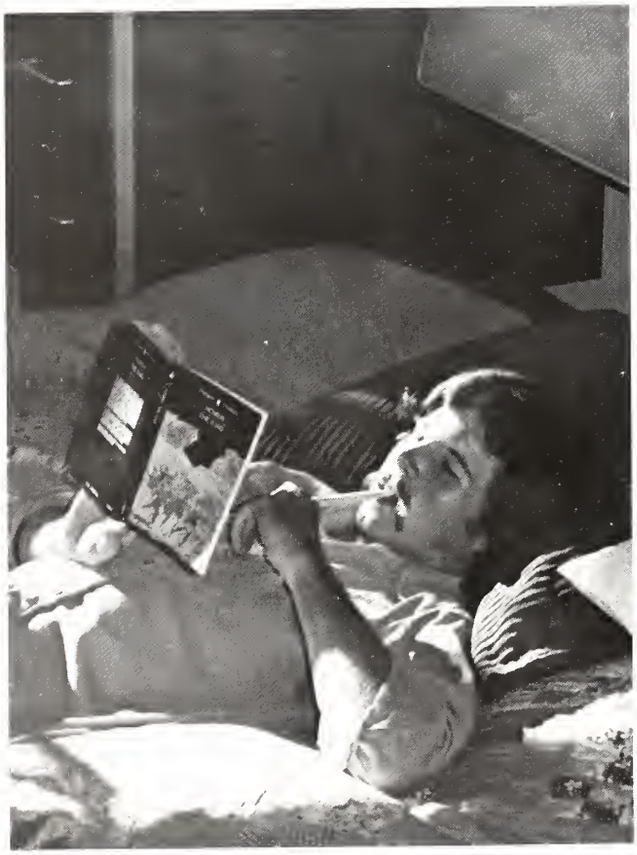
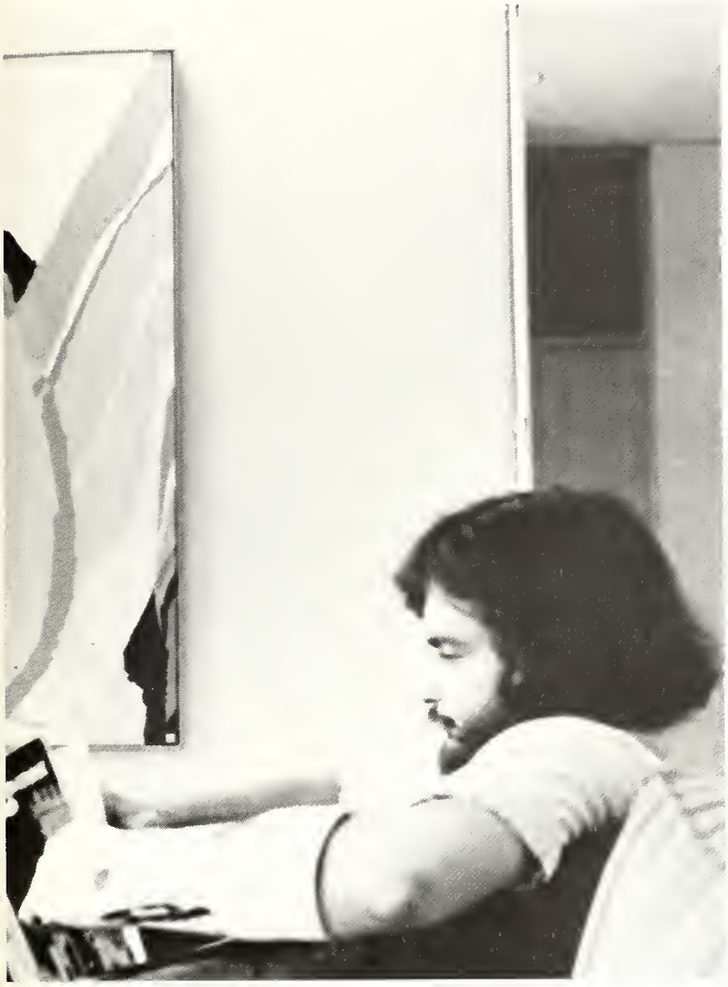
Class of '71







By labour and intent study . . . joined with the strong propensity of nature, I might perhaps leave something so written to after-times, as they should not willingly let it die.

— John Milton

MACMURRAY
640

You have to make the good times yourself, take the little times and make them into big times and save the times that are all right for the ones that aren't so good.

— Rod McKuen

In autumn, when the dismal rain Came down in slanting lines . . .

— Alexander Smith

KAUSHERS

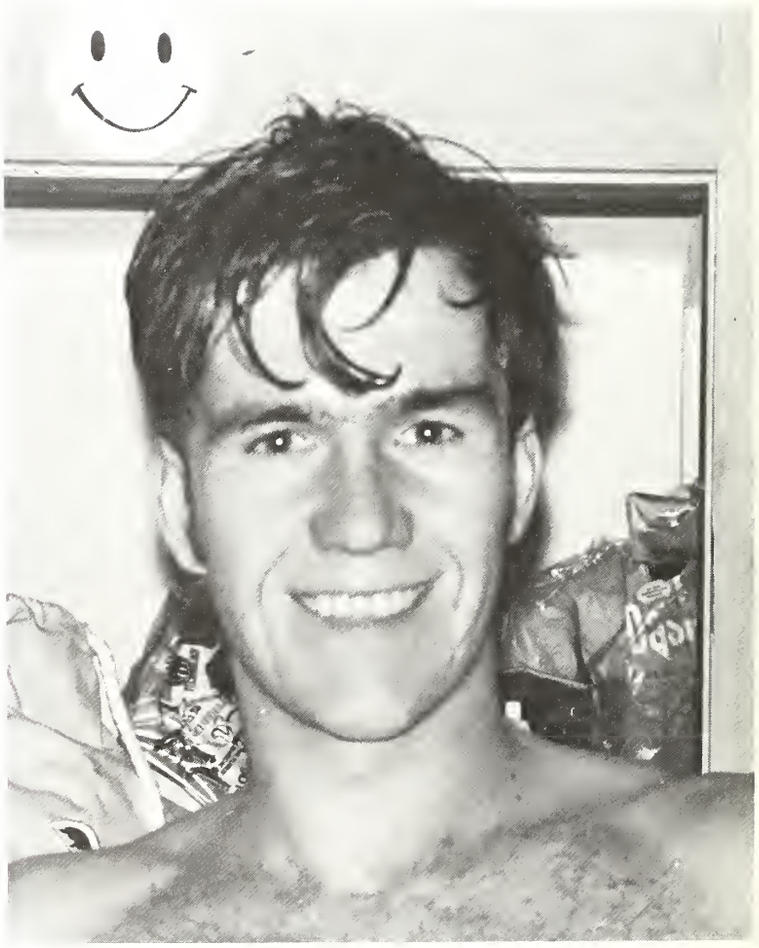
13

A man in a jail has more room, better food, and commonly better company.

— James Boswell

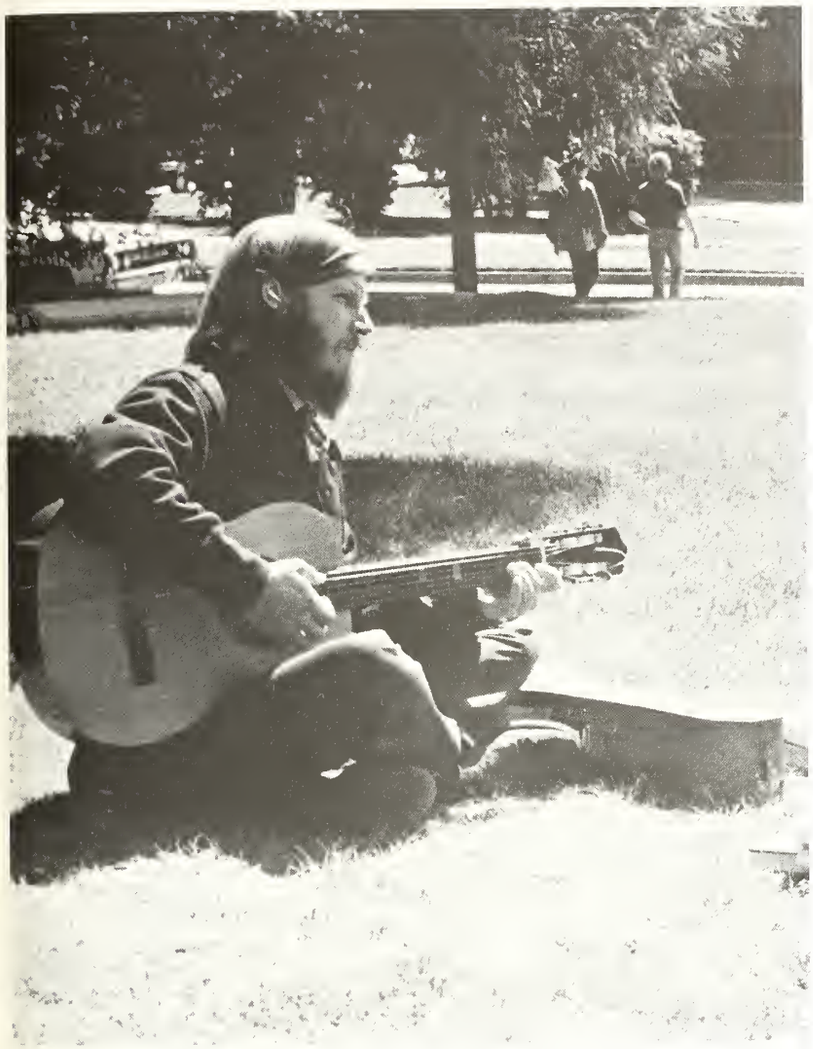
excuse me . . .
while i kiss the sky

— jimi hendrix



Use what talents you possess: the woods would be very silent if no birds sang there except those that sang best.

— Henry VanDyke



A boy's will is the wind's will,
And the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts.

— Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Behold the child,
By nature's kindly law
Pleased with a rattle,
tickled with a straw:
Some livelier plaything
gives his youth delight,
A little louder,
but as empty quite . . .

— Alexander Pope

Every face is another story.

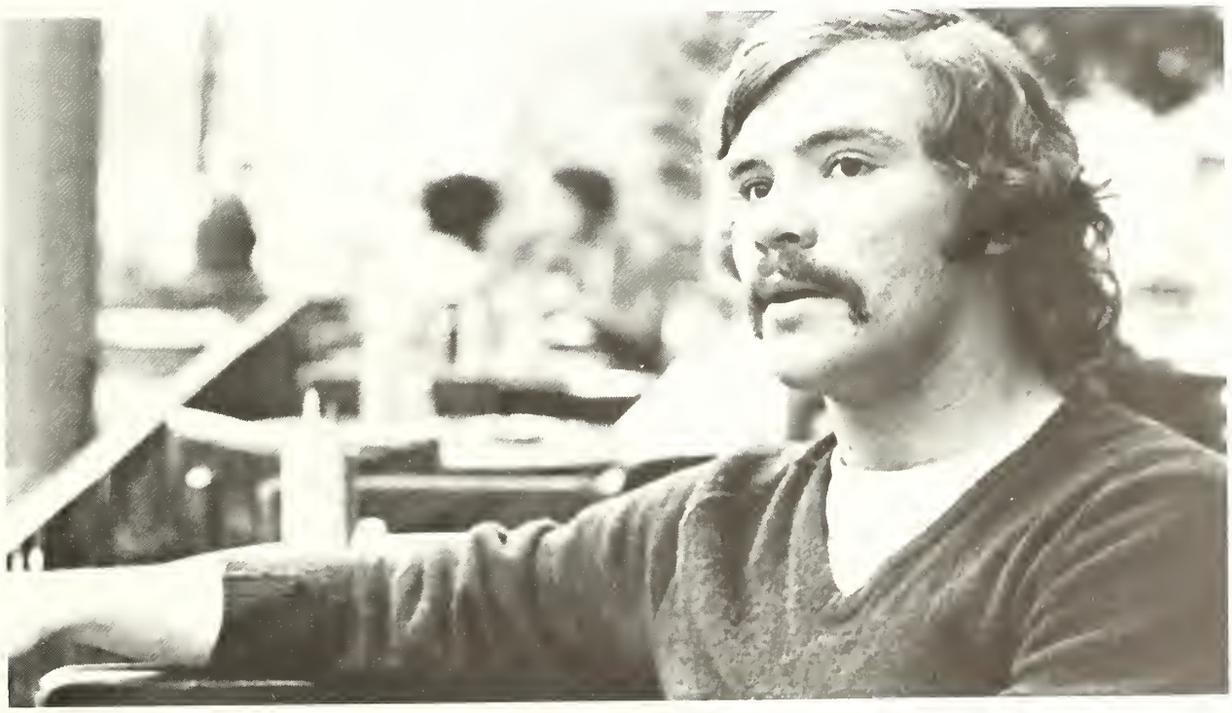
— Anonymous



Our lives would grow together
In sad or singing weather,
Blown fields or flowerful closes,
Green pleasure or grey grief.
— Algernon Swinburne

VEMBER EBRUARY
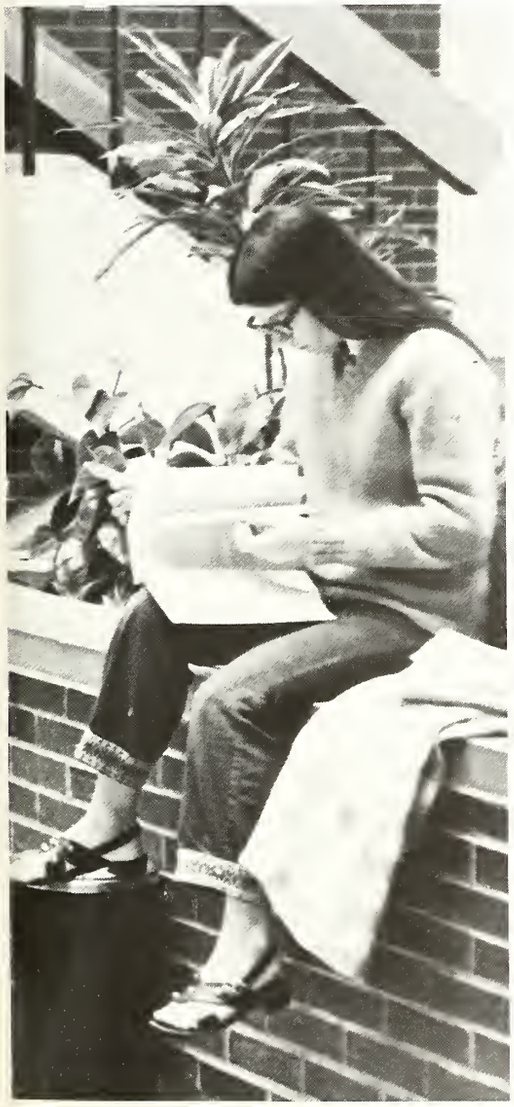
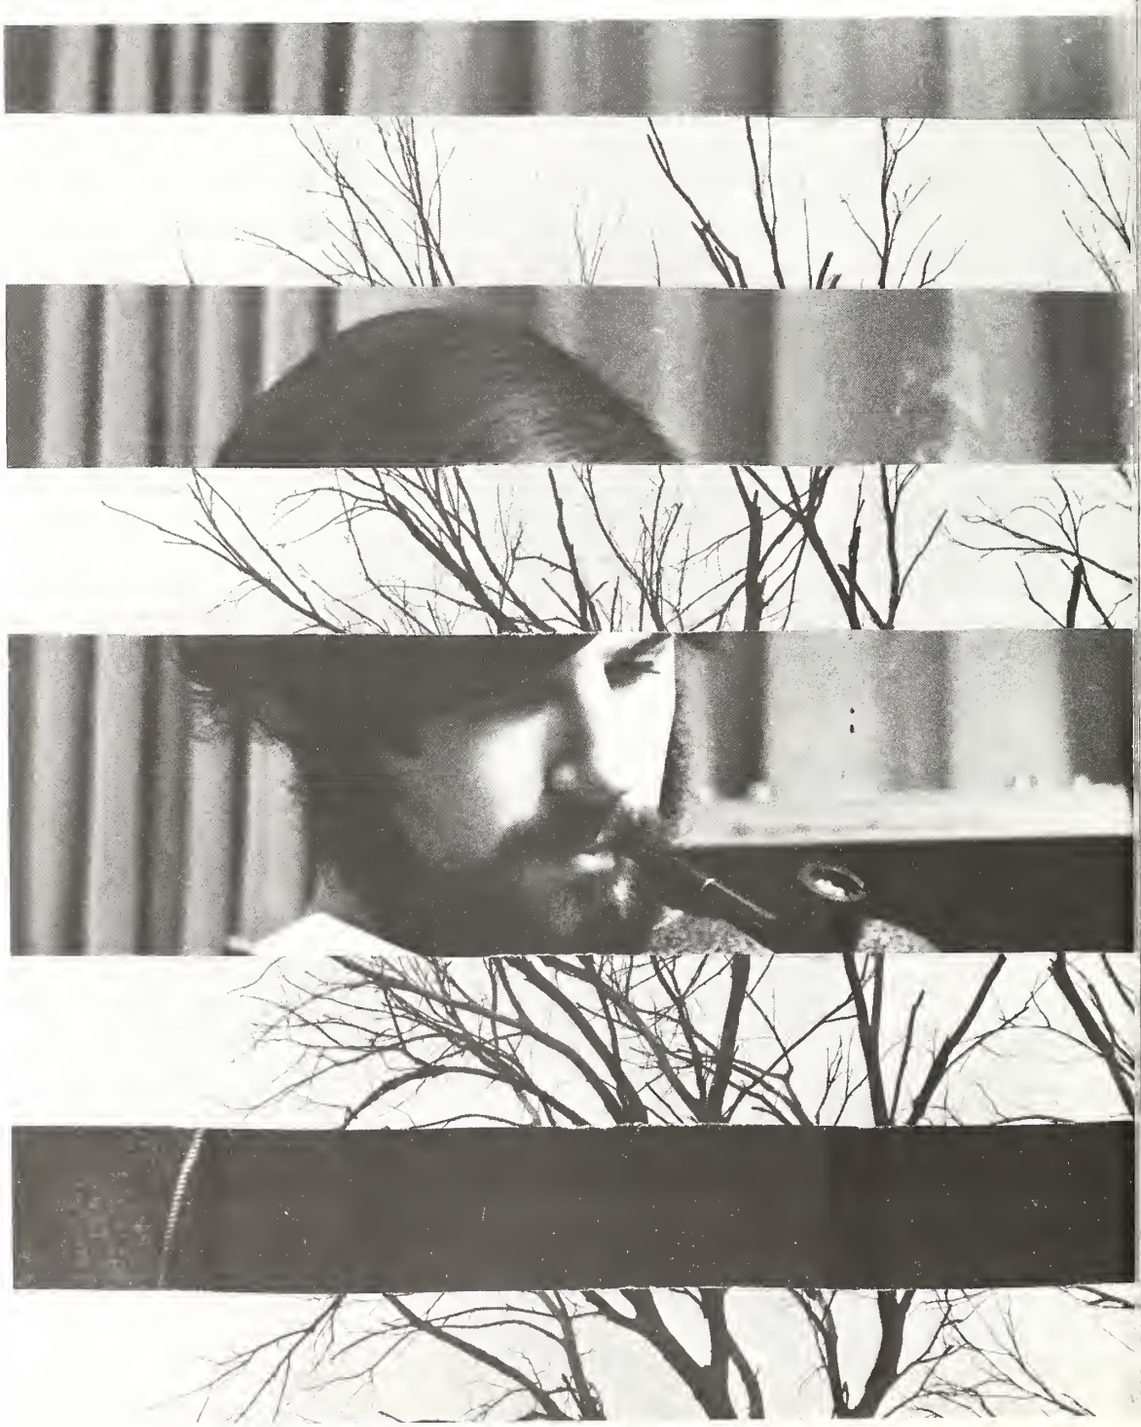
MAY



And always moving . . .
— Christopher Marlowe

MACMURRAY
HIGHLANDERS
MAC72
SEE. VERMONT.
7 1
VERMONT



The nurse of full-grown souls is solitude.

— James Russell Lowell

Most of the time you will be the it being let go of.

— Lenore Kandel

And I am awaiting perpetually and forever a renaissance of wonder.
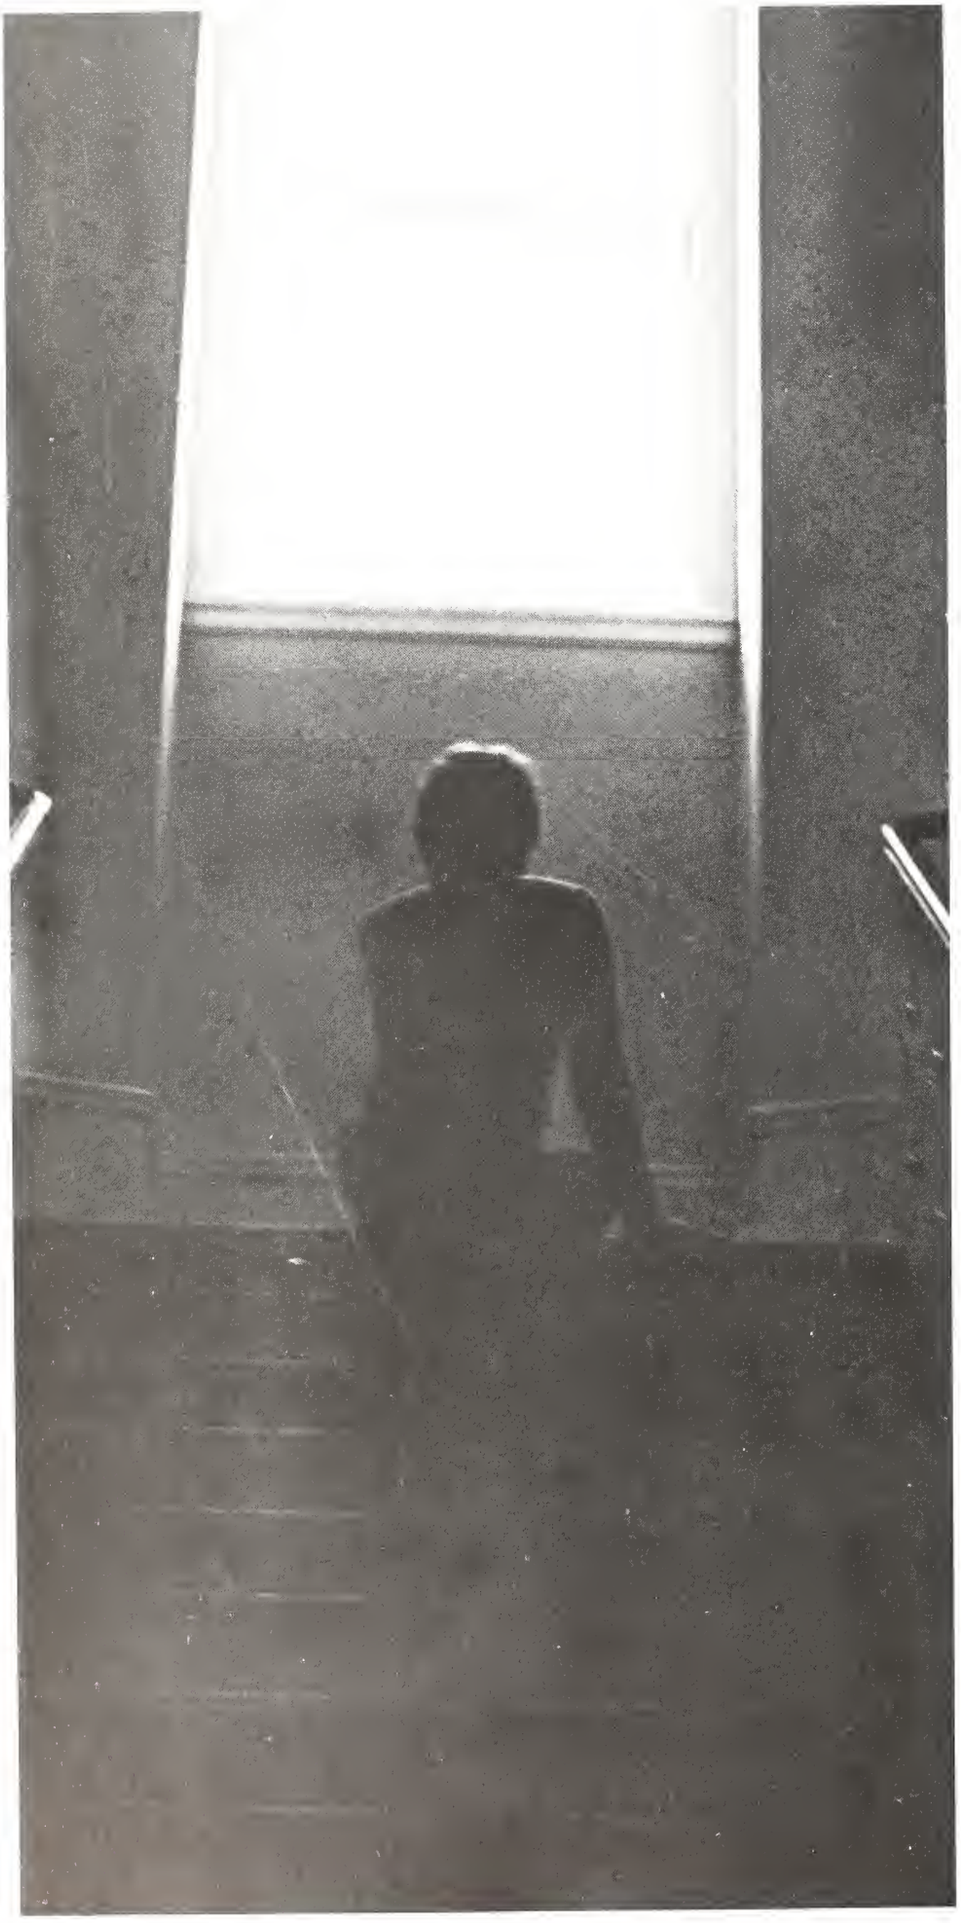
— Lawrence
Ferlinghetti

To see the world in a grain of sand,
And a heaven in a wild flower;
Hold infinity in the palm of your hand,
And eternity in an hour.

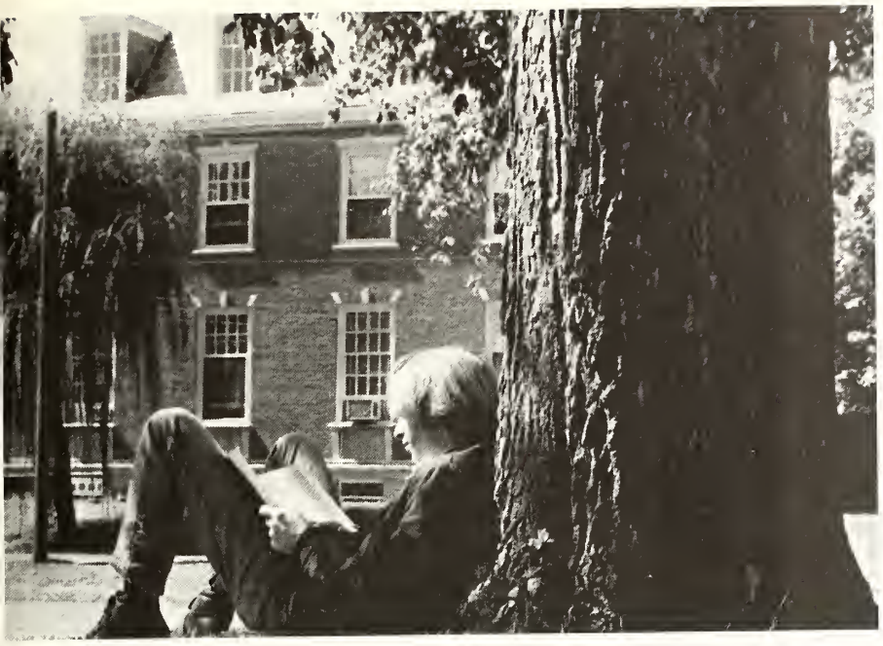
— William Blake



oh dear God no,
perhaps next life
I will be a fish

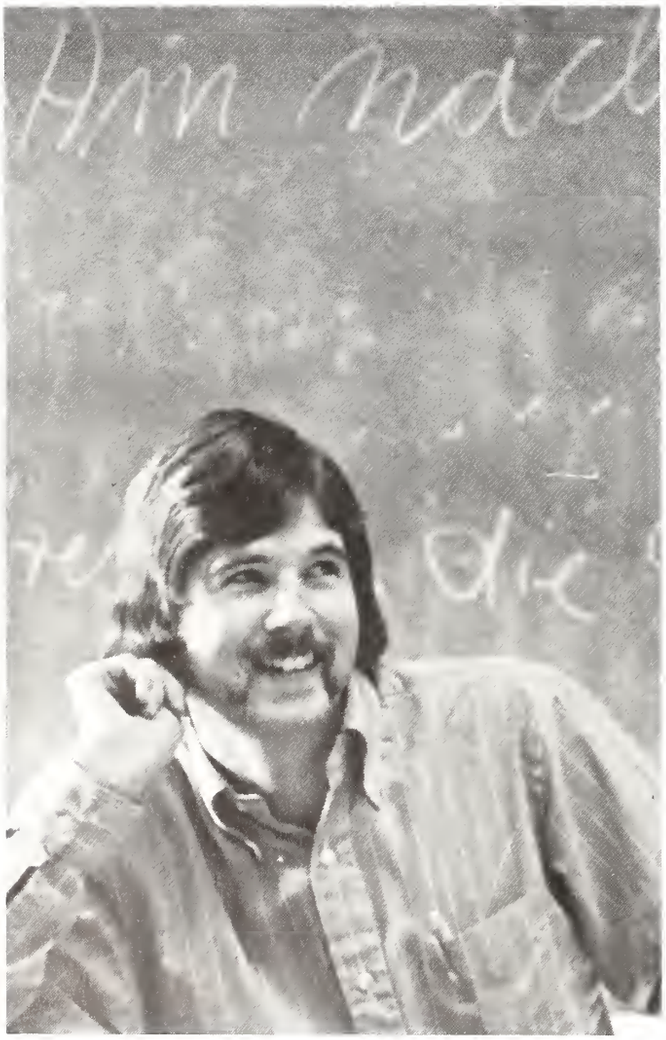
— Norman Mailer

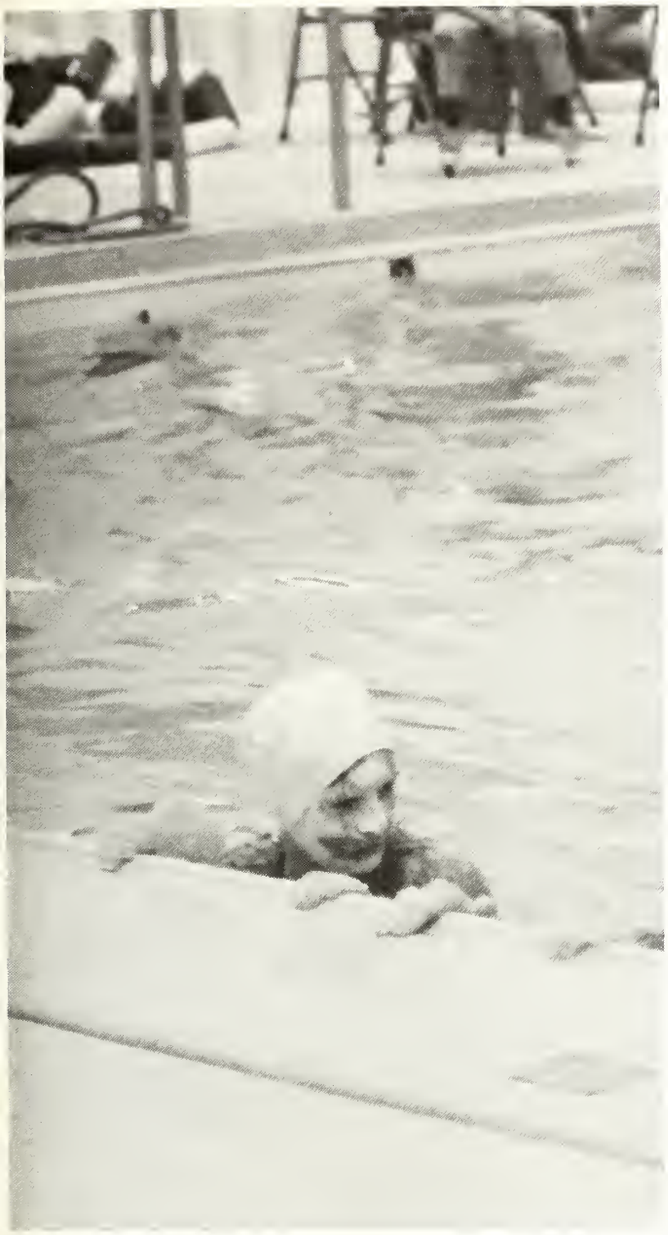
For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins . . .
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.
— Algernon Swinburne



The smile that won't come off.

— Carolyn Wells





We will now discuss in a little more detail the struggle for existence.

— Charles Darwin

In the beginning,
there was love (and love moved as a man stepping from stone to stone to finally cross the river).

— Johnnie Scott

International Scientific Symposium

The International Scientific Symposium held on the MacMurray College campus May 12-13, 1972 was the result of a suggestion by President John J. Wittich to pay tribute to Dr. Percy L. Julian. In recognition of the great humanitarian and scientific contributions of Dr. Julian, the College's chemistry facility was named the Percy Lavon Julian Hall of Chemistry. The Symposium theme was "Science and Education in the Service of Man." The Friday morning session included the presentation of three technical papers:

Steroid Paper:
Dr. Frank B. Colton
Chemical Research Department
G. D. Searle & Co.
Chicago, Illinois

Indole Alkaloid Paper:
Dr. Bernhard Witkop
Department of Health, Education and Welfare
Public Health Service
National Institutes of Health
Bethesda, Maryland

Organic Reaction Mechanisms:
Dr. David Y. Curtin
Department of Chemistry
University of Illinois
Urbana, Illinois

The afternoon session dwelt on the theme "Science in Society-Unfinished Business." Dr. Lloyd Cooke, Director of Urban Affairs for the Union Carbide Corporation, chaired a panel of distinguished scientists, which included:

Mr. Norman Applezweig
Consultant
New York, New York
Dr. Reuben L. Kahn
Professor
Howard University
Washington, D.C.
Dr. Joel A. Snow
Deputy Assistant Director for Science & Technology
National Science Foundation

Saturday morning another panel led discussion on "The Demands of Science Education in a Changing Society." This panel was moderated by Dr. C. Leplie Kanatzar, Dean of MacMurray College. Dr. W. Montague Cobb, editor of the Journal of the National Medical Association in Washington, D.C. provided the base for discussion with an opening address. Additional panel members included:

Dr. Harvey Brooks
Dean of Engineering and Applied Physics
Harvard University
Cambridge, Massachusetts

Dr. Bruce Campbell
Professor
Department of Chemistry

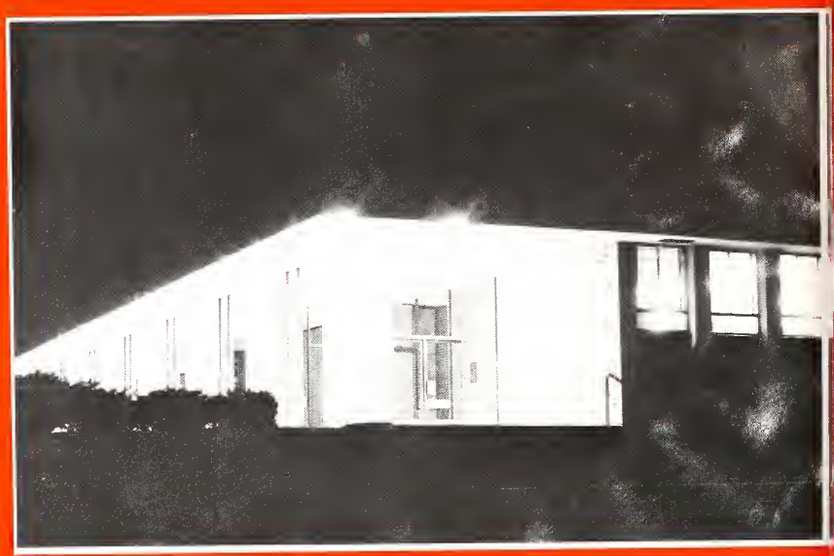
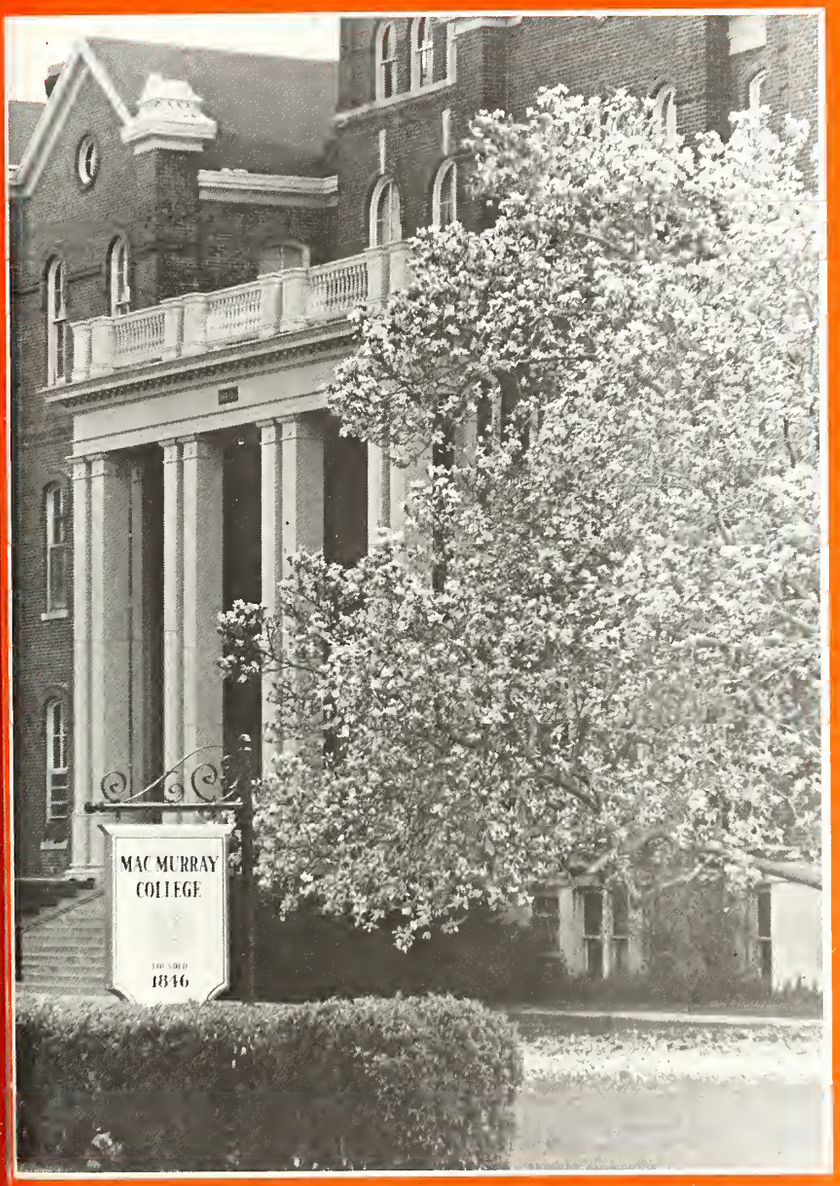
125th Anniversary



Mr. Arthur A. Houghton, Jr., Chairman of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, received the honorary Doctor of Fine Arts degree from MacMurray October 7, 1971, during a special Fine Arts Convocation held on the campus. The convocation culminated a three-day Fine Arts Festival which was scheduled in conjunction with the College's 125th anniversary observance.



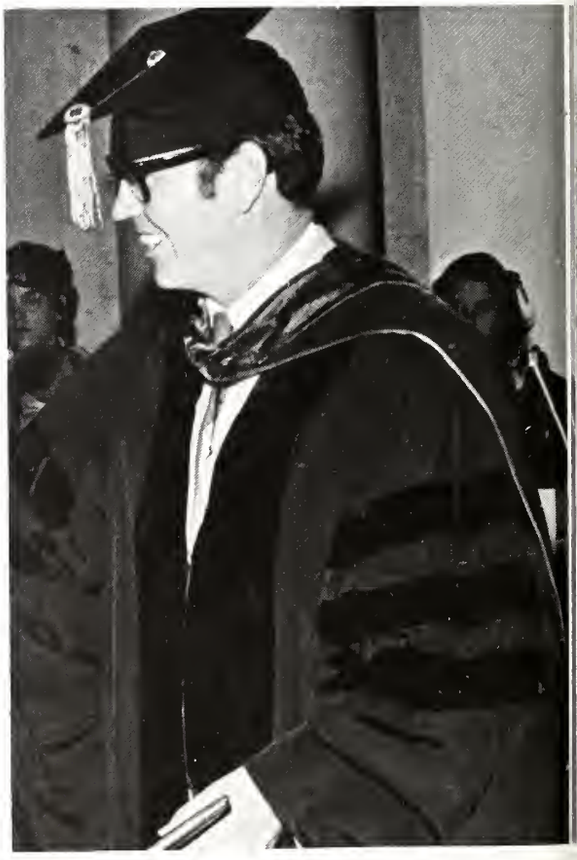
ACADEMICS

Dr. John J. Wittich
President

Tartan: Since assuming the presidency of MacMurray College, what changes have you seen in student attitudes at Mac and elsewhere?

Wittich: During the years preceding this one, many students felt that the war in Vietnam, the problems of the poor, world problems of population and disease, and other items were such that all thinking or aware persons should be unhappy — even hostile. These attitudes have been changing. Current students are not employing activist methods to make change. Perhaps this is because violent or irrational methods have not worked. Now they are more willing to work through the system and are supportive of others, even faculty or administrators, who may be initiators of change. In my opinion, they are not apathetic, they are realistic.

Even though students appear to be more playful and capricious and somewhat happier than in the immediate past, they continue to be responsible and constructive, though less radical. For example, giving blood is inconvenient, time consuming, frightening to some, and unpleasant to others. But the MacMurray community had almost a third of the entire student body offering to become blood donors and to organize and to administer the blood drive while it was on campus during the first semester.



Tartan: What further changes do you anticipate in years to come?

Wittich: The issues of the core curriculum are said to be timeless and to be relevant for any age and for any period. Whether they are really effective in changing persons depends, of course, upon the imagination and effort of the teacher and the desire and willingness of the student to make the necessary connections between timeless abstractions and today's concrete realities. A change in this area will be that specific steps will be taken to insure both teaching and desire to learn in the humanities area. Without these steps, the College will move in the direction of all other colleges to provide a smorgasbord of liberal arts offerings.

MacMurray will be offering opportunities for specialization, too, but they will be based upon and related to a central goal of developing the total humane personality. Broader approaches will also develop which are related to the needs of the day. Community planning, urban studies, ecology, and other interdisciplinary areas will be offered. These studies will probably be important in providing an overview and motivation for the continued specialization needed to solve the very complicated problems of the 1970's and 1980's.

Tartan: How about perceptions of students of academic opportunities?

Wittich: The change of the College to provide more flexibility of choice in the curriculum appears to have increased the academic interest and motivation of some students. On the other hand, students still voice their great interest in good teaching (and dismay in poor teaching) by their careful and persistent efforts to evaluate courses. The resulting publication is part of a continuing discussion by faculty and students of the value, ingredients, and support for effective teaching.

Tartan: In your opinion, is the small, private liberal arts college still in a position to boast benefits not available at larger schools?

Wittich: Yes, only at small colleges has it been possible, at least thus far, for faculty to lift up and continually emphasize a central goal for the whole institution. "Why am I here at this college?" is an important question even when viewed from a narrow economic angle! The small, privately supported college appears to be able to produce persons who believe that they did receive something special at the college as witnessed by their continual support of the private sector and by their continual self-questioning and searching for meaning in their lives after they leave the campuses of such colleges.

Tartan: What is the usual statement you make in yearbooks every year?

Wittich: I say this same thing every year only because it remains to be true. "This senior class, today's students, tomorrow and forever alumni, has joined with me to put forward our College. With those who have gone before and those who remain behind, we are bound together in a most noble endeavor, part of which includes the development of MacMurray College as an instrument for human service and good. Henceforth, you are MacMurray College, and MacMurray College is you. Our faith, our hopes and our confidence reside in you and with you as we wish you Godspeed."
